INTRODUCTION :-

We got many opportunities but this time we gain an understanding of many new ways and concepts. computer science allows us to interact with new things and a great deal with projects. in this project, we came to know about new concepts and learned them.

My project is about making a website on the railway reservation system. this website is somewhat similar to the train reservation website. this website allows a user to reserve their seats in the train. users can access the site if they want to know about the best tourism and places to visit. this website will help them to select places for tourism and allows them to book their tickets. holiday packages are also available and users can know about what are the services available at the following stations.
